Baldwin-Wallace senior Tori Davis has been named the DIII News Player of the Year for the second straight season.

Davis averaged 22.4 points and 9.1 rebounds a game this campaign and was named the OAC's most valuable player. For his career, he was a four-time all-OAC selection.

"As our Player of the Year last season, Tori was in a position to win the award again and he went out and had an outstanding season that set him apart from some other qualified candidates," said DIII News Editor Gary Rubin. "He proved that he is the top player in the country at the Division III level."

Davis was joined on the DIIIN All-American first team by Guilford sophomore Ben Strong, Washington (Mo.) junior Troy Ruths, senior Thomas Baker of Rowan and senior Isaac Rosefelt of St. Thomas University.
